

Where Will You Go with PTS Traveler?

Curriculum Background

Since 2004, Passport to Success® (PTS)—the world-class, instructor-led life skills training curriculum from the International Youth Foundation (IYF)—has been implemented in more than 50 countries around the world and helped educational institutions, businesses, and governments bridge the life skills gap between current employment opportunities and young jobseekers.

In January 2020, through a partnership between IYF and PepsiCo Foundation, the power of PTS became available online in a mobile-optimized, game-based course: PTS Traveler.

Youth travel the world to exciting new places as they learn about different jobs and build their career skills. As learners progress through the program, they earn stamps on their Passport to Success—encouraging them to continue their global journey of life skill development. PTS Traveler is a gender sensitive course, promoting positive female and male role models and gender relations.

The course will be available at launch in English (American and British versions), Spanish, and Hinglish.

Curriculum Design & Requirements

PTS Traveler has been designed for and tested with youth ages 16-24 around the globe. To date, the course has been tested with 900+ young people and has been met with glowing results. More than 83% of testers indicated they found the course helpful, 85% said they enjoyed the course, and over 82% would recommend the course to a friend.

The course is accessible through IYF's Learning Management System, Atlas, along with trainer support materials for facilitators using a blended learning approach. For young people taking PTS Traveler in self-guided learning environments, the course is customizable. Through an introductory goal setting exercise, youth are recommended to embark on one of three learning journeys: Eager to Explore, Workforce Ready, and Level Up & Lead.
